Friends Outside of the Group

It has come to my attention that some of the guys, and probably the girls, are going to try and bribe members of the opposite sex into liking them for a day or two. This may be followed by a request to sit with the group during the services. This is okay under the following conditions:

- It doesn't hinder the worship of the smitten one.
- It doesn't interfere with group plans or seating arrangements.

We will not:

- Transport anyone outside of our group that leaves on Tuesday. Even if the someone happens to be your next door neighbor from another life.
- Change group plans to accommodate anyone's love of their life (or week/day).
- Delay the group trying to coordinate meeting places.
- Invite anyone to our hotel to hang out.
- Hang out in the lobby of our hotel to "visit" with love of our lives without permission from the supreme ruler.

DISCLAIMER:

The supreme ruler has a tendency to make up life-altering rules at the drop of a hat. In the real world, most people will laugh at his rules. In this van, everyone says, "GREAT RULE!" And then they smile and get on with their lives much happier than before.

DISCLAIMER 2: Seeing as we are staying right at the airport, we are glad to provide transport to any flight for any soul who thinks they are Robin Hood and can rebel against the supreme leader or leaderette.

DISCLAIMER 3: The supreme leader loves writing disclaimers. This one is to provide him some much needed rest and relaxation from the perils of planning a youth trip. Thank you for reading.
